

"The work is a reaction to my surroundings, a reworking of history and memory; things seen, past and present. The starting point for the paintings being a familiar Welsh estuary landscape, and the urban surroundings of my studio in London."

"The colours and shapes activate the space within the painting, as an expression of a state of mind and a view of the world, drawn from these visual experiences."

Julia Wilson 2009